Starred Review Gr. 8-11. In the thoughtful, inspiring introduction to her latest collection of original poems, Nye encourages young readers to write three lines in a notebook every day: "You will find out what you notice. Uncanny connections will be made visible to you." The following poems draw from Nye's observations about nature, home, school, and neighborhood to make connections to a girl's inner world. The meaning in a few selections is oblique, particularly in spare lines that read like a zen koan. Most poems, though, speak with a powerful immediacy. When the speaker finds her mother's braid in an attic, there is the sharp, lonely realization that her parents will die: "I don't want to be / eighty years old / looking at the braid / all by myself." In other poems, she worries if a crush notices her, but there is a strong, contagious confidence in her voice: "Does he see me gleaming / in my chair?" In beautiful lines, the speaker's hopes extend to the wider world, and she wishes that, like tree frogs, humans had "something / we could / all sing / together, yes." A wide age range will respond to these deeply felt poems about everyday experiences that encourage readers to lean eagerly into their lives and delight in their passages. Life is a tangle of twisting paths. Some short. Some long. There are dead ends. And there are choices. And wrong turns, and detours, and yield signs, and instruction booklets, and star maps, and happiness, and loneliness. And friends. And sisters. And love. And poetry. Life is a maze. You are a maze. Amazed. And amazing.

A lovely little book I got for my teen daughter. The poems capture feelings and moments and are easy to comprehend. I love the cover art.

Fantastic collection for middle school English teachers. "Sifter" is a great introduction to metaphorical thinking.

Wonderful poetry - sensitive and beautiful. I will give the book to my granddaughter when she turns 12 but it truly is great for all ages. I have ordered other books by the same author since reading this.

I'm not generally a fan of poetry, but I REALLY liked this collection of poems for teen and tween girls. It really captured the heart and essence of those years. I highly recommend it for any tween or teen, or a teacher looking to do a poetry unit with middle school.

Love, love, love this collection!

Naomi Shihab Nye never disappoints. This little volume is packed full of writings that invite you in, open your heart, embrace you, and send you on your way.

Such an amazing book. My 8 year old daughter and I are having a blast reading these poems together and discussing them.

Once I read Naomi Shihab Nye's introduction, I felt I was about to turn the pages of something very special. I was right. This unique collection of poems gives the reader a chance to look at familiar life in a new way. Full of nostalgia, intimate and humorous, tender and tearful, this is a book I would love to underline and memorize. I look forward to writing in my own notebook, trying to find the poet in me.
