Tim Dowley (Ph.D. in church history, University of Manchester) has been at the forefront of writing and editing for a new generation of resources on biblical studies and church history. Stuart Martin studied illustration at Cambridge College of Art and, having painted teddy bears on antique furniture and murals for children's play areas, has for the last ten years illustrated children's books from dragons and sea monsters to teddy bears and many Bible stories. He lives with his wife and three children in a village in rural Leicestershire, England.

I bought this book as a present to my 8-months old son. He loves the book! The simplified story is accurate and understandable. The choice of colors and illustrations is well done. It is also nice that it rewards further attention with hidden figures to find and moveable illustrations. I would actually give this book 4 1/2 stars. The only issue is with the final display. I have to open the book to a degree it is not naturally designed to do, otherwise the images do not pop up completely. It is awkward and takes away from the overall impressiveness of this book.

This is a cute book. It has pull tabs on almost every page which keeps my 3 year old happy. It seems pretty durable and has held up well with her reading it and playing with the tabs herself. She is very gentle with her books though, so with children who are not quite as gentle on books you might want to supervise while playing with this one. It is not very long and I wish there was more wording/story in the book. There is a small paragraph (just a few sentences) on each page. I was hoping for a longer story to read to her. Overall it is a fun book and she enjoys it.

Such a great pop up book!!!

This book has been read hundreds of time to two little girls who keep asking for it to be read at night time. Great purchase.

I purchased this book as a Christmas gift for my niece's 18 month old daughter, who loves pop-up books. I took the plastic covering off before wrapping in order to check out the inside of the book. The colors were vibrant and it was beautifully illustrated from the cover to the inside pages. The pop-ups were great! I'm sure my niece's daughter will love the book.

2 year-old grandson loves it!

Cute book

excellent book for little ones to start teaching them about the bible.
