Already Gone Audiobook

Synopsis

Now on AUDIOBOOK! The next generation is already calling it quits on traditional church . . . Statistics reveal a huge disconnect taking place between our children and their church experience. Nationwide polls and denominational reports are showing that the next generation is calling it quits on the traditional church. And it is not just happening on the nominal fringe; it s happening at the core of the faith. This is the alarming conclusion from a study Answers in Genesis commissioned from America's Research Group, led by respected researcher Britt Beemer. The results may unnerve you--they may shake long-held assumptions to the core--but these results need to be taken seriously by the church. Already Gone reveals: why America's churches have lost an entire generation of believers; the views of 1,000 twenty-somethings, solidly raised in the church but no longer attending--and their reasons why; relevant statistical data effectively teamed with powerful apologetics. In this powerful book, popular author Ken Ham and consumer behavior research/analyst Britt Beemer combine to reveal trends that must be dealt with now . . . before we lose another generation! The trends are frightening, but Already Gone shows how to win back our families, our churches, and our world!

Ken Ham is founder and president of the Answers in Genesis US ministry, and one of the most in-demand speakers in the world today. He is a featured speaker at hundreds of events throughout the years - including seminars in local churches, conferences for pastors, and Christian education venues. Noting the foundational importance of biblical and scriptural authority, Ken shares powerful and relevant insight on the book of Genesis. C. Britt Beemer is chairman and founder of America's Research Group (ARG), a consumer behavior research and strategic marketing firm. He speaks at major trade and industry groups, as well as lecturing in seminars and workshops. --This text refers to an out of print or unavailable edition of this title.

Excellent research and insightful comments.

I have recommended this to a few pastors, and some more mature Christians, not sure that any of them have bothered to read it. How the Evangelical Church has taught children; by the survey numbers is not working. The Church seems to feel some guilt, displeasure or can't listen to the lesson. It is in my opinion, and I think follows Biblical precept in what/how Believer's children should be taught about Biblical truth and accuracy.

Every Christian parent, educator, and pastor should read this book if they have even the slightest concern for Christianity in America. I've read it once and will read it again. I've already given it away as a gift to a pastor friend and will do so more. Christianity in America is in trouble. This book is a loud warning to make radical changes before it's too late.

Ken Ham does an excellent job of presenting statistical data to aid in identifying a real world problem that permeates the modern church. He explains the reasons why compromising Genesis undermines the confidence people have in the authority of the scriptures. By interviewing evangelical Christians that have left the church, this book explains that the process of departure from Christianity begins as early as middle school. Because middle school and high school students do not understand the reasons for our faith, they are disconnected from the Bible and this leads to their departure. The majority of people who depart do so because of a lack of confidence in Genesis. Since the younger generation does not find Genesis reliable, they also do not have confidence in the rest of scriptures. This is a must read for all Christians, but especially pastors and teachers.

Many church researchers have documented the trend of an alarming number of twenty-somethings leaving the church. This book delves into why these young people are leaving the church and what can be done to help young people see the truth and relevance of the Word of God in an age that seeks to separate faith and truth.

I appreciate the way Ham calls America to action to reclaim it's Christian heritage and soul. We are quickly becoming a post-Christian nation; but we're not there yet. As a leader of college ministries, I was challenged to take this call by these men and carry it into my generation...and into my family.

This book was a revelation to me to make sense of what is going on in the Church and Christianity today. I plan on sharing this with the leaders in my church and others as well as educating myself on apologetics. I NOW see the importance as it relates to the very foundation of Christianity!

Using a premise similar to the book "Unchristian", Ken Ham works with Brett Reemer (spelling?) to conduct a valid poll across the country to find out why people in their 20's that grew up in church left. As children, many were Already Gone, having already decided they would leave. It's an eye-opener, awesome for pastors and educational for basic members and staff.
